

Contents

Preface Tunde Opeibi & Josef Schmied	vii
Gaining Political Capital through Social Media: A Study of Akinwunmi Ambode’s Twitter Campaigns during the 2015 Elections in Nigeria Tunde Opeibi	1
Web Discourses in Nigeria’s Democracy: How New Digital Humanities Methodologies Can Be Used to Follow National Language Practices Josef Schmied	31
Digital Discourse of Radical Movements: Exploring stance and Positioning in Nigerian Militant Groups’ Online Discourses Innocent Chiluwa & Ada Peter	43
Political Song-Lashing in Southwestern Nigeria: A Sociolinguistic Perspective Segun Awonusi	63
Yoruba-English Bilingualism in the Language of Political Campaigns in South-West Nigeria Mojisola Shodipe	81
Political Administration, Communication and Development in Nigeria: The Politics of ‘Saying’ and ‘Unsaying’ in Nigeria’s 2015 Elections Adebukunola A. Atolagbe	103
“If indeed this is the will of the Ekiti people”: A Discursive Critique of a Concession Speech Ayodeji A. Adedara	117
Of Carriions and Vultures: Political Malfeasance in Tayo Olafioye’s The Parliament of Idiots : Tryst of the Sinators and Ubangiji : The Conscience of Eternity Felicia Ohwovoriole	145

- Beyond Redemption?: A Comparative Analysis of the Nigerian Politician in Ola Rotimi's Our Husband Has Gone Mad Again and Olu Obafemi's Naira Has No Gender
Bosede Funke Afolayan

159

- Nigerian Democracy and Political Discourse:
A Socio-historical Perspective
Ayodeji Adedara & Tunde Opeibi

173