

Contents

|                                                                                                                                                                                                    |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| PrefaceJosef Schmied &amp; Jessica Dheskali                                                                                                                                             | v   |
| Credibility in Academic and Journalistic Writing and BeyondJosef Schmied                                                                                                                | 1   |
| English Article Usage Patterns in Academic Writing from the Balkans:Contrasting L2 Choices with Digitalising and Born-Digital MethodologiesMatthias Hofmann &amp; Vincenzo Dheskali | 15  |
| Academic Writing 1: Writing a Textbook for Macedonian BA ClassesBisera Kostadinovska-Stojchevska                                                                                 | 33  |
| Credibility in the Serbian Media: Argumentation as an Instrument of Trust?Jasmina Đorđević                                                                                              | 43  |
| Credibility in Local and State Media: A Comparative Analysisof Headlines in Serbian PressIvana Mitić                                                                                | 59  |
| Ethics in Journalism: Self-Regulation and the Adherence toEthical Principles in the Serbian PressAndrej Blagojevic                                                                  | 73  |
| Hate Speech: An Analysis of Some Extreme Responses to the ProposedSolution to the Greek-Macedonian Name DisputeJovanka Lazarevska-Stanchevska                                       | 87  |
| The Language of Politics: Toward a Metaphorical Reconceptualizationof the European Union in Public MediaGordan Matas &amp; Danica Škara                                             | 99  |
| The Özil Case: News Values in German Online NewspapersDana Ebermann                                                                                                                     | 109 |

|                                                                                                                                                                  |            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| Novice Writers' Perspectives on Credibility in Academic and Journalistic Writing                                                                          | 129 |
| Plagiarism in Macedonia: A Case Study of Medical Students from SkopjeIvana Popovikj                                                                   | 131        |
| Credibility, Honesty, Ethics and Politeness in Journalistic WritingsConcerning the Name Dispute in MacedoniaIskra Angelova                        | 145        |
| Credibility in Journalistic Writing: The Case of the Inclusion ofthe Albanian Language as a Second Official Language in MacedoniaMilena Aleksoska | 151        |