

Table of Contents

Declaration of Sponsorship	7
Dedication	8
Table of Cases	9
CHAPTER 1 Introduction	13
1.1 The Importance of Container Transport	13
1.2 The Concept of International Multimodal Transport	14
1.3 The Status Quo: the Lack of a Single Uniform Solution	15
1.4 The Objectives, Methodology and Structure	17
CHAPTER 2 The Scopes of Application of International Unimodal Conventions	21
2.1 The International Sea Conventions	21
2.1.1 The Hague Rules	22
2.1.1.1 Contract of Carriage	23
2.1.1.1.1 Sea Documents	23
2.1.1.1.2 Multimodal Transport Documents.....	27
2.1.1.2 The Temporal Scope of Application	29
2.1.1.3 The Territorial Scope of Application	32
2.1.1.4 Deck Cargo.....	32
2.1.2 The Hague-Visby Rules	35
2.1.3 The Hamburg Rules	37
2.2 The International Road Convention: the CMR	38
2.2.1 Contract for Carriage of Goods by Road	38
2.2.2 Art 2 of the CMR	41
2.3 The International Rail Convention: the COTIF-CIM	43
2.4 The International Inland Waterway Convention: the CMNI	44
2.5 Conclusion	45
CHAPTER 3: The Liability of the Container Carrier under the International Unimodal Conventions	48
3.1 Liability of the Carrier at Common Law	48
3.2 Liability of Carrier in International Sea Conventions	50
3.2.1 The Hague and Hague-Visby Rules	50
3.2.1.1 Obligations the Carrier	51
3.2.1.1.1 Seaworthiness Obligation.....	51
3.2.1.1.2 Due Care of Cargo	54

3.2.1.1.2.1 Meaning of Properly and Carefully	54
3.2.1.1.2.2 Contractual Arrangements in Art III rule 2	56
3.2.1.2 Exceptions	58
3.2.1.3 Burden of Proof	62
3.2.2 The Hamburg Rules.....	66
3.2.2.1 The Carrier’s Liability for Loss of or Damage to the Goods or Delay in Delivery	66
3.2.2.2 Defences	67
3.2.2.3 Burden of Proof	68
3.2.3 Conclusion	69
3.3 Liability of Carrier in International Road Convention: the CMR	70
3.3.1 Basis of Liability	70
3.3.2 Defences	71
3.3.3 Burden of Proof	73
3.4 Liability of Carrier in International Rail Convention: the COTIF-CIM ...	76
3.4.1 Basis of Liability	76
3.4.2 Defences	76
3.4.3 Burden of Proof	78
3.5 Liability of Carrier in International Inland Waterway Convention: the CMNI	79
3.6 Conclusion	79
CHAPTER 4 Liability of Relevant Third Parties on behalf of the Carrier in International Unimodal Conventions	81
4.1 International Sea Conventions	82
4.1.1 The Hague Rules	82
4.1.1.1 Identity of the Carrier	82
4.1.1.1.1 The definition of Carrier in the Hague Rules	83
4.1.1.1.2 Signature	84
4.1.1.1.3 The Printed Clauses: the Definition of Carrier Clause, the Demise Clause and the Identity of Carrier Clause.....	86
4.1.1.2 Liabilities of Relevant Third Parties as the Carrier.....	91
4.1.1.2.1 Himalaya Clause	93
4.1.1.2.2 Sub-bailment on Terms.....	99
4.1.2 Art IV bis of the Hague-Visby Rules	101
4.1.3 The Hamburg Rules.....	102
4.2 International Road Convention: the CMR.....	103

4.3 International Rail Convention: the COTIF-CIM.....	105
4.4 International Inland Waterway Convention: the CMNI.....	106
4.5 Conclusion	107
CHAPTER 5 Limitation of Liability in International Unimodal Conventions..	109
5.1 International Sea Conventions	109
5.1.1 The Hague Rules	109
5.1.1.1 Meaning of Package or Unit.....	110
5.1.1.2 Gold Value.....	111
5.1.2 The Hague-Visby Rules	112
5.1.3 The Hamburg Rules.....	117
5.2 International Road Convention: the CMR.....	117
5.3 International Rail Convention: the COTIF-CIM.....	118
5.4 International Inland Waterway Convention: the CMNI.....	119
5.5 Conclusion	120
CHAPTER 6 Liability systems in International Multimodal Transport.....	122
6.1 The Need for a Liability System	122
6.2 Liability Systems for the Multimodal Transport Operator.....	123
6.2.1 Theoretical Liability Systems	123
6.2.1.1 Uniform Liability System.....	123
6.2.1.2 Network Liability System	123
6.2.1.3 Modified Liability System.....	124
6.2.2 Liability Systems in Practice.....	124
6.2.2.1 Modified Uniform Liability System in the MT Convention.....	124
6.2.2.2 Limited Network Liability System in the Rotterdam Rules.....	126
6.2.2.2.1 Carriage preceding or subsequent to Sea Carriage: Article 26.....	126
6.2.2.2.2 Conflict with Other Conventions: Article 82	130
6.2.2.3 Limited Network System in Contractual Terms	132
6.2.3 Proposed Liability Approach.....	133
CHAPTER 7 The MT Convention.....	134
7.1 Historical background.....	134
7.1.1 ICC Uniform Rules for Combined Transport Document.....	137
7.2 Provisions of the MT Convention.....	141
7.2.1 Scope of Application.....	141
7.2.1.1 Concept of Multimodal Transport Contract.....	141
7.2.1.2 Exclusions of International Multimodal Transport	142
7.2.2 Liability of Multimodal Transport Operator	145

7.2.3 Identity of Carrier and Liability of Relevant Parties	145
7.2.4 Limitation of Liability.....	146
7.2.5 Influence of the MT Convention.....	146
CHAPTER 8 The Rotterdam Rules.....	148
8.1 Scope of Application	148
8.1.1 Contract of Carriage	148
8.1.1.1 Door-to-door Approach	149
8.1.1.2 Definition of Contract of Carriage.....	150
8.1.2 Geographical Scope of Application: Art 5	152
8.1.2.1 Internationality.....	152
8.1.2.2 Connection Factors	154
8.1.3 Temporal Scope of Application	155
8.1.4 Exclusions.....	156
8.2 Liability Regime	158
8.2.1 Period of Liability	159
8.2.2 Obligations of the Carrier	159
8.2.2.1 Duty of Care for Cargo.....	160
8.2.2.1.1 New Obligations: Receive and Delivery	160
8.2.2.1.2 The FIOST Clause	161
8.2.2.2 Descriptions of Cargo.....	162
8.2.2.3 Seaworthiness	163
8.2.2.4 Deck Cargo	164
8.2.3 The basis of liability.....	166
8.2.4 Excepted Perils.....	167
8.2.4.1 The Nautical Fault and Fire Defences.....	168
8.2.4.2 List.....	170
8.2.5 Burden of Proof.....	170
8.3 Identity of the Carrier, the Performing Party and the Maritime Performing Party	173
8.3.1 Identity of the Carrier.....	174
8.3.2 Performing Party	175
8.3.2.1 Definition.....	175
8.3.2.2 Vicarious Liability of the Carrier	177
8.3.3 Maritime Performing Party	178
8.3.3.1 Definition.....	178
8.3.3.2 Liability of the Maritime Performing Party	179

8.3.3.3 Joint Liability.....	180
8.4 Limitation of Liability	181
8.5 Recommendation for the Rotterdam Rules.....	184
8.5.1 Limited Liability Approach in the Rotterdam Rules	184
8.5.1.1 Art 82.....	184
8.5.1.1.1 Suggestion for Art 82.....	187
8.5.1.2 Art 26.....	187
8.5.1.2.1 Suggestion.....	189
8.5.2 Scope of application.....	189
8.5.2.1 Contract of Carriage in Art 1.1.....	189
8.5.2.1.1 Suggestion.....	190
8.5.2.2 Geographical Scopes of Application.....	190
8.5.2.3 Temporal Scope of Application	191
8.5.2.4 Summary.....	192
8.5.3 Liability of the Multimodal Transport Operator.....	192
8.5.3.1 Basis of liability, Exceptions and Burden of proof in Art 17.....	193
8.5.3.2 Obligations	194
8.5.3.2.1 Seaworthiness	194
8.5.3.2.1.1 Suggestion.....	195
8.5.3.2.2 Deck Carriage	195
8.5.3.2.2.1 Art 25.1	195
8.5.3.2.2.2 Art 25.2	197
8.5.3.2.2.3 Art 25.3	198
8.5.3.2.2.4 Suggestion.....	199
8.5.3.2.3 SOLAS Amendment and Containers' Weight Information	199
8.5.4 Performing Party and Maritime Performing Party.....	200
8.5.4.1 The Definitions of Performing Party and Maritime Performing Party.....	201
8.5.4.1.1 Suggestion.....	202
8.5.4.2 Liability of the Maritime Performing Party	203
8.5.4.2.1 Suggestion.....	203
8.5.5 Limitation of Liability.....	204
8.6 Summary.....	207
CHAPTER 9 Conclusion	208
9.1 Overview of this Monograph	208
9.2 How Wide Should the Scope of Application of an International Convention be to Apply to International Multimodal Transport?	209

9.2.1 Basic of Application.....	210
9.2.1.1 Contract of Carriage	210
9.2.1.2 Temporal and Geographical Scopes.....	211
9.2.2 Possible Conflict	212
9.3 Do the Existing Conventions Provide a Proper and Satisfactory Framework to Govern Container Carrier’s Liability?	213
9.3.1 Standard of Liability	214
9.3.2 Identity of Carrier and Relevant Third Parties.....	216
9.3.3 Limitation of Liability.....	217
9.4 Proposals regarding Relevant Provisions of the Rotterdam Rules	218
9.4.1 Scope of Application.....	218
9.4.2 Liability of Container Carrier	219
9.4.2.1 Limited Network Liability System.....	219
9.4.2.2 Standard of Liability.....	220
9.4.2.3 Identity of Carrier and Liability of Performing Party and Maritime Performing Party	220
9.4.2.4 Limitation	221
9.5 Conclusion	221
Bibliography.....	223