Abstract
1. Introduction	1
Part I – Theoretical Background	4
2. Pre-, Peri- and Postnatal Developmental and Sensitivity Phases for Adverse Life Conditions	4
2.1 Pregnancy – Prenatal Development	7
2.1.1 Developmental and Sensitive Phases of Pregnancy	7
2.1.2 Maternal-Placental-Fetal Entity	11
2.1.3 Complications of Pregnancy and their Treatment	14
2.1.3.1 Preterm Contractions and the Risk of Preterm Birth	15
2.1.3.2 Treatment with Tocolytics and/or Glucocorticoids	18
2.2 Perinatal Development and Sensitivity Phases	20
2.3 Postnatal Development and Sensitivity Phases	21
3. Health – Definition and Theories of Health	24
3.1 Health in children and adolescents - Epidemiology	26
3.1.1 Epidemiology of Mental Health	27
3.1.2 Epidemiology of Somatic Health	29
4. Pre-, Peri- and Postnatal Adverse Life Conditions	31
4.1 Stress	32
4.1.1 Definition and Theories of Stress	32
4.1.2 Biological Components of Stress	37
4.2 Prenatal Stress and its Influence on Psychosomatic Health	40

4.2.1 Programming Hypothesis	43
4.3 Perinatal Adverse Conditions and their Influence on Psychosomatic Health	52
4.4 Postnatal Adverse Life Conditions – Life Events and their Influence on Psychosomatic Health	54
5. Conclusion, Study Idea, Questions and Hypotheses	57
6. Methods and Ethics	58
6.1 Operationalization and Study Design	58
6.2 Subjects and Recruitment.....	59
6.3 Ethics for studies with children	60
Part II – Empirical Studies	62
7. Pre-Analysis –Mother’s Perception of Preterm Contractions and the Risk of Preterm Birth	62
7.1 Introduction	62
7.2 Methods and Material.....	63
7.2.1 Subjects and Recruitment Criteria	63
7.2.3 Procedure and Measurements	63
7.3 Results.....	65
7.4 Discussion.....	65
8. Data Analysis I – Adverse Prenatal, Perinatal and Postnatal Conditions and Mental Health in Children	67
8.1 Introduction	67
8.2 Methods and Material.....	72
8.2.1 Subjects and Recruitment Criteria	72
8.2.3 Procedure and Measurements	74
8.2.4 Statistics	76
8.3 Results.....	76
8.4 Discussion.....	82

9. Data Analysis II – Prenatal Stress and Somatic Health.....	86
9.1 Introduction	86
9.2 Methods and Material.....	90
9.2.1 Subjects and Recruitment Criteria	90
9.2.3 Procedure and Measurements	91
9.2.4 Statistics	93
9.3 Results.....	94
9.4 Discussion.....	101
Part III – General Discussion.....	106
10. General Considerations and Summary of the Study Results.....	106
10.1 Pre-Analysis - Retrospective Mothers’ Perception of Preterm Contractions and the Risk of Premature Birth	107
10.2 Data Analysis I - Adverse Pre-, Peri- and Postnatal Conditions and Mental Health in Children	108
10.3 Data Analysis II - Influence of Prenatal Stress on Perinatal Outcomes and Somatic Health in Children.....	109
11. Methodological Considerations and Limitations	110
12. Integration of the current findings.....	111
13. Implications for Prevention and Clinical Interventions.....	115
14. Directions for Future Research.....	117
Part IV – References.....	120
15. References	120
