

Acknowledgments

I am very grateful to my advisor Prof. Dr. Brigitta Benzing who supported me to win the DAAD scholarship and made this study a success by assisting me in several respects. She did everything possible to secure me the financial assistance of the Dr. Walther Liebehenz Foundation for my field research in India. She read the dissertation manuscript and provided me valuable insights without which the program would not have come to its fruition. I also thank Prof. Dr. Ullrich Braukämper for his continuous assistance in advising me and providing valuable research materials, including his own publications.

I thank the Dr. Walther Liebehenz Foundation for granting me financial assistance for the fieldwork, without which the study would not have been materialized.

My sincere gratitude goes to my wife Tsion Teklu and my two daughters Hebron and Hermon Ababu for bearing the hardship of separation during my studies abroad. I can't thank enough Tsion for her consistent support and encouragements throughout my study leave. Tsion, you are really wonderful and I am indebted to you! I also owe deep gratitude to Ato Abebe Wolde-Gebriel and his family for supporting my wife and daughters in many ways during my absence.

I express my thanks to DAAD (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst / German Academic Exchange Service) for this scholarship grant. I am also thankful to Mr. Joachim Pfau and Mrs. Heike Asmuth for assisting me in times of acute difficulties, in simplifying complex computer related works, and providing me helpful insights into relevant literature.
